Dear Developmental Paediatrician, ,

Issues:

1. Language and social communication delay
2. Need TRO autism
3. Needs follow up to uncover other underlying issues

Lutfea a 3 year old girl was brought to me for issues with language delay. She was born at term with no significant medical or family history to note. She achieved her motor milestones on time. Early language development was fair, where she had a few words at 1 year+, however it was late to progress and there was significant language regression during the MCO (she was about nearly 2 years old+). Further history, suggest some red flag signs of autism such as delayed pointing and certain behaviours that may be considered rigid.

She is clinically thriving and COH and weight is growing along her own centile, she was having a severe tantrum when she walked into my room and I was only able to observe her at the common area playground. I noticed that she has poor joint attention and an inconsistent respond to name. There was a lot of neologism and she tend to have lots of neologism. There was no gross neurological anomaly noted. However, there is a big café au-lait spot behind her left thigh. No others were found.

We have discussed on importance of audiology and early intervention.

I would like to refer to you for further follow up and confirmation of diagnosis.

Thank you,

Ashikinmn
